Laguna Beach was infiltrated this week by Scuba Tech from Destin, Florida. This is one of the most fantastic laid back groups we have seen at Laguna! Everyone was on pure vacation. The week started with the Superbowl blow out--let's just say there were a few missing divers Monday morning. The days progressed with beautiful weather and great diving. Although the whale sharks remained a mystery there was a sighting of a small sperm whale! Very rare here and a special treat. Other aquatic life included sailfin blenny, yellowheaded jawfish, eyed flounder, and some neck crabs.

We would like to especially thank Nancy and Carla for bringing such a wonderful group--hope to see you again in the future!
